

The Washington Post

Social Issues

Religion events from around the Washington area

By Gerri Marmer, August 12

Clergy news:

On July 1, The Rev. Kermit Clifton Charles Moore took the helm as pastor of Providence-Fort Washington United Methodist Church in Fort Washington. Moore was named incoming pastor in April by the Baltimore-Washington Conference of the United Methodist Church. Moore also has served as chaplain for the Henry E. Lacey High School football team in Indian Head and assistant superintendent of the Cheltenham Youth Facility. He is retired from the Department of Juvenile Service. He is married to Paulette Moore. They have three adult children and three grandchildren. The church is at 10610 Old Fort Rd., Fort Washington. 301-292-2323.